

In the spring of 2005 this tiny, flea-infested kitten showed up at my door. She screamed as loud as she could until we brought her inside.

A bath took care of most of the fleas, and the vet gave her a clean bill of health.

I snapped a photo of her yawning, and my husband immediately said she looked like she was singing.

She loved to sing at us, we'd frequently hear this loud meow as we entered a room she was in and she had this amazingly loud purr that you could hear anywhere in the room. She'd start purring if she saw you even looking at her.

Sandy stayed tiny, but had a huge presence in our lives. When fully grown she only weighed five pounds.
